Tuesday, August 20th, 2024 1:15 pm-3:00 pm	Ozlem Guclu	FA24-03: Teach Me Videos @LMC I have discovered an intriguing method to engage students, both in person and online, which I would like to share with all of you. I assign weekly "Teach Me Videos" in my Calculus and Statistics classes, where students tackle one challenging problem per week and create a video to teach me how to solve it. These videos have revolutionized my teaching approach, transitioning from a traditional lecture style to a flipped model. Initially, these Teach Me Videos were a selfish endeavor, but I soon realized they were more than just a means to reconnect with my students—they transformed my classes into something amazing! I invite you to join me in exploring the remarkable benefits of these Teach Me Videos for our students. Through this approach, I've observed increased retention rates, higher success rates, a reduction in equity gaps, elevated rigor beyond my expectations, and an overall sense of enjoyment from both myself and my students. We will also discuss how to make learning contextualized by incorporating active learning strategies.  Zoom: https://4cd.zoom.us/my/ozlemg

Tuesday, August 20th, 2024 1:15 pm-3:00 pm	Mara Landers	FA24-08: What is Quantitative Reasoning? @LMC What is Math 125, Quantitative Reasoning? Come attend this workshop to learn all about this new course we are offering to Arts/Humanities/Communications students. We will discuss the learning outcomes and content, the curriculum that is being developed for the course, and lessons learned from the first run of the class in 2023. The workshop will include some problem solving to get a taste of the class, which may include mortgages, voting and apportionment systems, and other applications.  Zoom: https://4cd.zoom.us/j/2515177550

In this workshop we will help you identify bad actors and/or ghost students. We will cover the importance of dropping no shows in a timely manner. You will learn the impact this has on financial aid students and the institution.  Location: LCCC3 361  Zoom: TBD

Tuesday, August 20th, 2024 1:15 pm-3:00 pm	Liana Padilla-Wilson	FA24-17: Behavioral Science Anthropology, Psychology, and Sociology Reviewing Strategies for Student Engagement and retention in the Behavioral Science Courses @LMC Community college students face several challenges and obstacles on the path to graduation and completion of their associate degree and certificates. A difficulty that some students have is the motivation to study and stay engaged in their courses. This workshop is designed for the Behavioral Science faculty (anthropology, psychology, and sociology) to review, identify, share, and develop strategies faculty members use for student engagement and retention in asynchronous, synchronous, and face-to-face classes.  Zoom: xtEiWuk2EB
Tuesday, August 20th, 2024 1:15 pm-3:00 pm	Mindy Capes Girlie Sison Dennis Gravert	FA24-32: Implementing iPads into the Physical Science classroom @LMC With our experience teaching remotely, many faculty utilized tablets such as iPads in asynchronous videos and Zoom lectures. These were the best alternative to traditional whiteboards, but offered so many more advantages that helped students succeed and interact with the course and material. With RAP funding a small number of devices have been purchased to improve the flexibility and delivery of Physical Science course content. If you are a seasoned pro at using your own devices in face-to-face instruction, please come to share what you have learned and your best practices. If you are new to or interested in learning how to enhance the classroom experience with iPads, please come to learn the many ways they can be incorporated.  Location: SC2-229

Tuesday, August 20th, 2024 1:15 pm-3:00 pm	Scott Warfe	FA24-37: What We Know About ADHD And How It Might Be Impacting Your Students @LMC Students with ADHD are likely to enter preschool with skill deficits. These deficits are expected to continue throughout their educational careers, leading to higher failure rates than neurotypical students. Given that ADHD could impact as much as 10% of our students, how are we facilitating their success? This workshop will review more research on ADHD, specifically considering its impact on learning. We'll also explore how we might tailor expert-suggested remediations to our classes. Disclaimer: The facilitator is not an expert on ADHD.  Zoom: https://4cd.zoom.us/my/zoomwithscott

Wednesday, August 21st, 2024 1:15 pm-3:00 pm	Adrianna Simone Sara Toruno-Conley	FA24-38: America's Got GE: State Changes to Local GE @LMC This session will cover all upcoming changes from Title 5 (state changes) for our local GE pattern. These changes include Ethnic Studies moving into its own category box and a math requirement that will affect the overall unit count for local GE (implementation for both is fall 2025). Attendees will have opportunities to discuss how the local GE pattern is affected and why. We will also explore options related to local GE, such as maintaining our diverse perspectives box, which the college adopted in the early 1990's. We will review our current local GE pattern and take a deep dive at our diverse perspectives' courses, which focus on other areas of scholarship related to diversity, such as LGBTQ+ Studies, gender studies, social justice studies, multiculturalism, and more. America's got GE--and the more participation from the college the better! This workshop is an opportunity for you to learn about state change, have your voice heard, and explore some of our diverse course offerings at LMC. It's a workshop that you don't want to miss!  Location: CC2-223  Zoom: https://4cd.zoom.us/j/2850738670

Wednesday, August 21st, 2024 1:15 pm-4:00 pm	James Madden	FA24-21: Anatomy Ready! Basics, Clean Out, and Tidy @LMC Full-time and part-time Human Anatomy (BIOSC-040) professors shall meet for three objectives: reviewing the basics of opening/running/closing the lab; a massive clean out of lab resource spaces and any organization required; tidying up as much of the lab as possible. The repeat from last semester of the lab procedures is necessary because many instructors could not attend the last Flex session. Review the Basics: Last semester, we created an opening/running/closing checklist for the laboratory sessions. For those who were unable to attend, this document shall be reviewed in detail. Massive Clean Out: We have a plethora of resources in the lab, some more organized and functional more than others. Therefore, we shall open all cabinets and drawers and make decisions – what stays, what needs to go, where to store things, and any rediscovered “treasures.” This also allows all instructors to gain greater familiarity with all resources we have and make requests for new materials. Tidying Up: There are nooks and crannies in the lab that require some attention. For example, there are cobwebs high in the ceiling’s corners, dust on the benches, loose pieces of models, and more. We will take pride in our lab and make it as clean and comfortable as possible, while also documenting tasks that are beyond our abilities so that Facilities can handle them.  Location: PITT + SCI-133 Anatomy Lab

Thursday, August 22nd, 2024 9:00 am-12:00 pm	Max Trujillo Katie Berryhill Anthony Blakeley	FA24-12: "A Long Talk": Critical Conversations on how to be an Active Anti-Racist @LMC Join us for a three-part series in which we will engage with one another on how to truly bring about transformative change in our society. This three-part series will allow both faculty and staff to engage in critical conversations empowering participants with the language and skills to move from bystanders to activated anti-racists bringing about transformative change in our communities. The first session takes place during flex week, where participants will view a film called "The History of Race in America" that will give us a common foundation on which to begin to engage in conversation. Lunch will be provided. The second session will take place solely on Zoom on Friday, September 6th with the Founders of "A Long Talk" to make us think critically about the work we do in our educational spaces. The final session will take place on September 20th in-person with the founders of A Long Talk, when we will learn and practice using key tools to address multiple "isms" not only in our educational spaces of the classroom and larger college, but also within our own communities. For more information about "A Long Talk," see http://alongtalk.com. This is a cohort experience. Participants must participate in all three sessions. The series is hosted in partnership with the Office of Equity & Inclusion and the IDEA Committee. To learn more about 4CD's Anti-Racism Pledge and to receive a badge, click here.  Location: L-109

Thursday, August 22nd, 2024, 10:30 am-12:15 pm	Van T Phan	FA24-33: Create a neurodivergent-friendly environment to empower neurodiverse people to fulfill their potential @LMC Teachers are pivotal in empowering neurodivergent individuals to reach their full potential by cultivating an inclusive and supportive learning environment. Through raising awareness, implementing effective systems, and harnessing digital tools, educators can create transformative learning experiences that benefit both neurotypical and neurodiverse learners. Neurodiversity acknowledges that people's brains function differently, reframing these differences as unique strengths rather than deficiencies. Common conditions such as autism, dyslexia, and ADHD encompass approximately 20 percent of the population. As educators, it's essential to address the needs of this often-overlooked group, guiding them toward success rather than dismissing them as burdens to society. These questions will be addressed: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• WHO am I?• WHAT is neurodiversity?• WHY should we care about neurodiversity?• HOW will we empower neurodiverse people?  Location: LCC2*214
