Reported that there will be an exclusive meeting regarding the insite portal on Tuesday, November 8. Stated that LMC will be going through some changes; one of the ways revising the way Insite works. President Cortez was included in that; discussion took place about how to improve InSite in general and is looking for feedback from senate. Problems include things such as user-interactivity not as friendly. Has not been changed in 4 years. Meeting with Marketing Chair to discuss D. Treasurer Velazquez made the point that “it’s best to get the input of graphic designers.” E. Commissioner Lee suggested a more viable option concerning login for both students and professors/faculty F. Vice-President Garcia highlighted the redundancy of the page and how things should be simplified. “The aesthetic is too cluttered...it looks like the 90s.” G. Commissioner added that scrolling down for more information is unnecessary H. Guest Raphael Antunez compared the simplicity of government and corporation pages and how insite should emulate this style I. Advisor Nguyen suggested sending images of website to President Cortez to have for tomorrow J. President Cortez concluded his report by announcing that on Thursday, November 17 from 3:30-5:30 Kristin Connor will be hosting a workshop that includes a test that identifies how people learn and strengths, free of charge. President Cortez inquired whether they've seen different models implemented in other districts. Velazquez responded that although he is unsure of this, they have seen that support classes work well in STEM classes, so they reasoned, "why not English?" They correlated math success with possible English successF. Vice-President Garcia clarified that 100S is a non-transferrable course. Credit only gained if English 100 is passedG. Guest Marcelo Clark offered an anecdote about struggling in English and suggested that the matter should be up to the professor's discretionH. Commissioner Lee stressed giving people options of leaving English 90 rather than forcing everyone through 100S fast-trackI. Treasurer Velazquez added that they're planning to run a pilot in the summerJ. Vice-President Garcia pointed out that this points to how there is an avoidance of impacted, oversized classes. "This fast-track is about pushing people through; the real issue is oversized classes, comes down to money." Stressed having low class sizes and more instructors IV. A bill was vetoed about banning all smoking on campus as he stated that it should be left to the district's decision. While crafting the document he presented to the senate, they were waiting for a student representative to provide their input. Brought in idea that this was written in order to fine students for smoking on campus. (Fines of $25, $50, and $100.) District using model that the original bill had.B. Although the bill may not be fully implemented, it gives them leverage to do so. Agreed that having smoke-free campuses is healthier for community health. A resolution was proposed to

President Cortez asked whether the senate believes the school should fine or not fine. Document is siding on fining. “Presently we’re a smoke-free campus that does not enforce fines. If we approve this, procedures would have to change completely from bottom to top.” D. Guest Raphael Antunez suggested that there should be improved designated areas such as the lake/park E. President Cortez argued that although students may not have the money to pay the fines, enforcing fines would incentivize people not to smoke on campus F. Commissioner Lee inquired where the fine money would go. “Would it go toward scholarships” Vice-President also asked whether it would go to the city or the school. President responded that it would go to the school. Both responded that funneling the money into scholarships is a complicated process

President Cortez had concern about whether it is feasible to cook meals in an appropriate place and how often this would be. Mr. Antunez stated that he is looking for licensing to do this every week. President asked if there were enough people interested in doing this to which Mr. Antunez assured that he has talked to several people about it who were open to the ideaE. Treasurer Velazquez suggested to go ahead and figure out the numbers of people who are interested in order to put a motion together. Clarified to not only seek out officers but also to also work out the legalitiesF. Mr. Antunez agreed to reconstruct his vision of Ideal Meal to coincide with the food pantry. 		B. President Cortez asked what is it that the club would do to connect them with what is taking place in the real world. Mr. Clark responded that the difference between getting together with friends and just talking where facts may be incorrect is that with CAWS, professors could come in and debunk/fact-check to foster awareness. Stressed that he is going for an academic approach to society rather than an opinion space. C. Guest Dale Satre remarked that John hosted a safe space talk about the election but only does so once a month. Said that if CAWS can meet more frequently it would be “very helpful.” D. President Cortez asked how CAWS would be different from say, the debate club where sensitive topics are discussed weekly. Treasurer Velazquez clarified President Cortez’s inquiry in asking, “what would be the end result?” Mr. Clark responded that he wants to accomplish gaining the tools to be more critical in approaching various issues such as sexual violence E. President Cortez stated that currently, “LMC already has things in place for discussion” and his concern is that he does not understand how CAWS would add to that. Treasurer Velazquez added that despite the value in what Mr. Clark is bringing, “it is difficult to quantify this.” F. Vice-President Garcia said that if anything, it would add further to the TED Talks. VI.
