Please briefly describe your experience with online teaching. Please include the approximate number of semesters or quarters you have taught online.	I have been teaching online and hybrid since 2003. The program for which I teach, the Los Medanos College Travel Marketing Program, has been 100% online (no on-campus courses offered) since 2008.
Please describe any formal training you have received for teaching online (e.g., the @ONE Certification or OESP course, Quality Matters, QOLT, or a similar program offered at your college).	I have an M.S. in Education with Online Teaching and Learning option, from California State University East Bay, Hayward, CA
How many online courses have you taught using the	5-10

Please describe any experience you have training, mentoring or coaching other online instructors.

I provided DE training for Los Medanos College during our Blackboard to D2L transition in Spring 2014. I have been the DE trainer for Contra Costa College (sister college to LMC) since September, 2014. I have been working with CCC instructors before and during our district transition from D2L to Canvas. As DE trainer, I design and deliver courses for online teachers. I also mentor and provide feedback for individual instructors that are using Canvas as a supplement for their f2f courses or who are teaching hybrid or fully online courses.

Please describe any experience you have reviewing courses or providing feedback to other online instructors.

At CCC we are currently wrapping up our third annual "cohort" of online teachers that are developing new hybrid or fully online courses. As a DE trainer, I help mentor the members of the cohort, lead training sessions, set up one on one meetings, and review their courses using the OEI course design rubric at the end of the "cohort" training period (which lasts about 4-5 months).

Additional comments (optional):

I would be honored to become a peer reviewer for the OEI.
