OCTOBER 2025

Dear LMC Community,

As October arrives, we find ourselves well into the rhythm of the semester—the early sprint has eased into a steady, purposeful pace. This is the time of year when the excitement of new beginnings gives way to the steady work of progress. Classes are in full swing, projects are underway, and we are deeply engaged in supporting our students’ learning and success.

It’s also a time to remember that endurance, balance, and pacing are just as important as momentum. As we continue this race together, I encourage each of us to take moments to breathe, reflect, and celebrate the small victories along the way—whether that’s a breakthrough in class discussion, a student finding their confidence, or engaging in impactful work with a colleague.

Thank you for your continued dedication, compassion, and resilience. Together, we’re not just getting through the semester—we’re shaping meaningful experiences that last far beyond it. Wishing you a restorative and inspiring October,
