February 2009

Dear Barbara,

February is a busy month for LMC students! You've probably just begun to adjust to the fast pace of student life once again, but there are also many special events taking place on campus and important deadlines you won't want to miss. Please take a minute to learn about African American History Month events, including guest speakers, films, and even a talent show; a UC campus tour, Club Day activities and more.

Library News

The LMC Library is pleased to announce that we have two new online databases: Science Full Text Direct and Biography Reference Bank!!!

Science Full Text Direct is a searchable database of full-text articles from 360 different science-related journals and magazines. The articles cover a wide range of scientific areas including acoustics, biology, chemistry, computers, environmental science, engineering, health, nutrition and more.

Biography Reference Bank is a searchable collection of biographies of over 550,000 notable people. The biographical profiles link to articles, images, book review excerpts and more. These databases can be searched just as quickly as the Internet, but they only provide scholarly information that is appropriate for you to cite in class assignments!!!

These new resources can be accessed by clicking the Electronic Databases link on the Askalibrarian@losmedanos.edu or by calling 439-2181, ext. 3275, during hours when the library is open.
